WHO WE ARE

The California Water Boards are comprised of the State Water Resources Control Board, located in Sacramento, and the nine Regional Water Quality Control Boards, located in specific watersheds throughout California. The Water Boards are part of the California Environmental Protection Agency (CalEPA).

WHAT WE DO

- Monitor and Report on the quality of surface and groundwater
- Adopt policies and permits to protect the many uses of water
- Regulate drinking water, water pollution, and diversion
- Fund restoration and capital improvement projects to protect public health and the environment.
- Enforce the pollution control and cleanup requirements that are established for discharges and contaminated sites

MAKE A DIFFERENCE

The Water Boards have launched a new internship program! We are seeking undergraduate and graduate talent to work with mentors on important issues including climate change, water conservation, drinking water, water quality, and groundwater.

WHY JOIN US

Be part of a dynamic team dedicated to protecting California's water resources for generations to come. This is a unique educational experience that may provide school credit. Work alongside some of the top experts in their fields and be mentored along the way.
